Aargh! There aren’t any articles about communication and paramedics!

The principles of communication are pretty basic. You’ll find articles about listening, feedback, conflict and teams – but not necessarily just for paramedics.

An article about communication and listening for nurses will probably have a lot that also applies to paramedics and teachers, accountants and sports coaches as well. After all, we all have to communicate with other people. This might make it a bit easier to find a good article.

Duh?
